Description

Wake up every morning looking at Doe Mountain with your horses in the pasture and Cherokee National Forest as your backyard -Welcome to "Paradise" -- a one-of-a-kind East Tennessee property where rolling pasture, a peaceful creek, beautiful Doe Mountain views, and direct access to the National Forest create a setting that truly lives up to its name. Tucked away in the peaceful mountains of East Tennessee, 151 Stonebridge Lane feels like something straight out of a storybook. This one-of-a-kind property offers 16.78 acres of rolling pasture, level yard space, a pond, a beautiful year-round creek, and direct access to the Cherokee National Forest right from your own backyard. If you have been dreaming of a slower pace, fresh mountain air, room to roam, garden, explore, and truly enjoy country living, this property delivers it all.

The farmhouse, built around 1901, has been exceptionally maintained through the years while still holding onto the charm and character of the past. From the beautiful wavy glass windows to the storm shutters carefully installed to help protect them, this home carries a warmth and history that is hard to find. The main home offers 2 bedrooms and 1 bath with a cozy, welcoming feel that instantly feels like home.

The property also features a fully equipped guesthouse that is perfect for family and friends coming to visit and enjoy the beauty of East Tennessee. Above the large 2-car garage is an additional finished living space that would make a fantastic office, hobby room, man cave, guest area, or quiet retreat. The garage itself is ideal for a workshop with both water and power already in place.

One of the standout features of this property is the large barn setup that is ready for horses, hobbies, equipment, or farm life. The barn includes horse stalls, a tack room, storage rooms, and plenty of space for all your outdoor needs. There is also a riding area already in place, making this property especially appealing for horse lovers or anyone wanting room to spread out and enjoy country living.

The creek running through the property is truly special and creates the peaceful sound of flowing water throughout the landscape. Combined with the pond, pastureland, and mature trees, the setting feels private, quiet, and untouched. Adjoining the Cherokee National Forest is another rare feature that adds both beauty and long-term privacy. With thousands of protected acres bordering your land, you can enjoy hiking, exploring, horseback riding, wildlife, along with the comfort of knowing your backyard will remain peaceful and natural for years to come.

Step outside and enjoy the quiet country setting and views of beautiful Doe Mountain. The Appalachian Trail is just a short hike away, Watauga Lake is about 10 minutes down the road, and Mountain City is also a quick 10-minute drive for shopping, dining, and everyday conveniences.

Properties like this are rare. A creek, pond, barn, pastureland, national forest access, mountain scenery, guest spaces, and a historic farmhouse all wrapped into one unforgettable East Tennessee setting. Whether you are looking for a peaceful full-time home, a family gathering place, or simply a quiet mountain escape, this property feels like a dream come true. The only thing missing is you come find your Paradise on Stonebridge Lane!
