Description

Welcome to 146 El Bowers Road in Elizabethton. The home sits surrounded by mountains in a quiet residential neighborhood. The location offers a balance of privacy and convenience, with town services, schools, and shopping just a short drive away.

Inside, the home has several recent updates. The upstairs level and staircase feature new flooring throughout. The kitchen includes updated stone countertops that add both durability and function. The layout offers open living space with room for daily use, gathering, and work.

The primary bathroom stands out with a large footprint and hand-laid tile work. It creates a private space with durable finishes and careful detail. Over time, the home has been cherished through years of thoughtful stewardship, with steady upkeep and improvements that show in how it presents today.

Outside, the property sits in an established neighborhood with a private setting. The backyard offers a mix of usable space, including a portion that is fully fenced for privacy, pets, or play, along with additional open yard beyond the fence. The surrounding area gives you a setting framed by mountains without being in a remote location. And while the setting feels quiet, access to town and amenities remains convenient.

A home like this is easy to settle into. It offers space that feels lived in and cared for, with updates that support daily life without changing its character. Enjoy quiet mornings encompassed by mountains, with a sense of ease that is hard to find this close to town. It has been cherished, and it is now ready for its next chapter, with room to grow into it over time.
