Nolichucky River, this unique tract offers opportunities that are increasingly difficult to find. The property includes multiple areas with road frontage along Highway 107, creating excellent potential for subdivision into smaller tracts for resale, residential development, or future homesites. The balance of the acreage consists of productive bottomland bordering the Nolichucky River, ideal for farming, livestock, hunting, fishing, camping, or simply enjoying the natural beauty of the region. Whether you're looking for a private estate, family farm, recreational retreat, or a property with significant development potential, this tract offers the flexibility to fit a wide range of visions. The attractive pricing provides an opportunity for investors and developers to create value through subdivision while retaining acreage for personal use or income-producing agricultural purposes. Positioned between Jonesborough and Greeneville, the property offers a desirable blend of accessibility and rural character. With both highway frontage and river frontage, it presents a unique opportunity for those seeking land with long-term investment potential and multiple possible uses. Opportunities to own large tracts with both highway frontage and river frontage are rare. Don't miss your chance to invest in one of East Tennessee's most versatile properties.
