Ideally located at 3530 Highway 75 in Blountville, Tennessee, just two miles from Tri-Cities Airport, this unique property offers the tranquility of a secluded mountain-style retreat while remaining conveniently situated between Kingsport, Bristol, and Johnson City.
A picturesque 1,600-foot private driveway winds through a wooded landscape, leading to an exceptionally secluded, elevated building site nestled along a peaceful ridge. Adding substantial value, the property already benefits from approximately $50,000 in existing infrastructure improvements, including water, sewer, and electrical infrastructure. With public water and sewer service available, much of the groundwork for future residential use has already been established.
The property is zoned R-3A Residential, offering flexibility for a variety of residential development possibilities, including single-family residences, duplexes, patio homes, condominiums, townhouses, and multifamily dwellings, subject to applicable zoning requirements and development approvals. Whether you envision an exceptional private estate, a secluded residential compound, or a thoughtfully planned residential development, this property offers possibilities rarely found in such a convenient location.
An additional advantage is its location in Sullivan County, with county property taxes only.

With its expansive wooded setting, elevated building site, existing utility improvements, and strategic location in the center of the Tri-Cities, 3530 Highway 75 represents a truly distinctive real estate opportunity.
This is not just another vacant tract of land. It's an opportunity to create something special in a setting that must be experienced to be fully appreciated.
