Surrounded by rolling pastures, mature woodlands, natural springs, and abundant wildlife, this private retreat is perfectly suited for those seeking a hobby farm, recreational getaway, or simply a quieter way of life. The 3-bedroom, 2.5-bath home has received numerous improvements, including updated flooring throughout, new ceilings, fresh interior paint, a beautifully remodeled primary bathroom, an expanded primary walk-in closet, updated lighting and ceiling fans, and a new central heating and air system installed in July 2026. An expanded balcony, complete with a power awning and access from the TV room, provides the perfect setting to enjoy morning coffee, mountain scenery, and frequent visits from local wildlife. Additional features include a wood-burning stove, root cellar, generator hookup, and high-speed underground fiber-optic internet. Beyond the home, the property is exceptionally well-equipped for a variety of uses. An approximately 2,000-square-foot detached garage features three bays, workshop space, and a studio apartment complete with its own kitchen and full bathroom--ideal for guests or extended stays. A barn with electricity and spring-fed water, multiple fenced pastures, livestock shelters, hay storage, and a chicken coop with an enclosed run provide an excellent foundation for a working or hobby farm. One of the property's most captivating features is its beautiful, spring-fed pond, stocked with rainbow trout, bluegill, and carp. Multiple natural springs serve the property, while established hiking and riding trails wind through the acreage, offering countless opportunities to explore. With direct access to the Cherokee National Forest, outdoor recreation extends well beyond your own property lines. Despite its wonderfully secluded setting, the property remains conveniently located approximately 20-30 minutes from Johnson City, Elizabethton, Erwin, Hampton, and Unicoi.
